

From the Chairman – Terry Knight

First of all I would like to take this opportunity to thank everybody for their loyal support during the past twelve months and to wish you a Happy New Year.

Mike Clarke our Publications Officer writes elsewhere in this issue about the highly successful book entitled “Discovering More About Hitchin” which sold out very rapidly before Christmas. My congratulations go to those concerned in the monumental task in order to bring it to fruition. This fascinating volume was produced in memory of our much late lamented President Scilla Douglas. There’s no doubt in my mind that she would be very proud of the efforts put in to produce such an excellent work.

A number of our members may be well aware that 2019 marks the 150th anniversary of the opening of the doors of Benslow House in Hitchin as a College for Women. Four years later a move was made to a new building at Cambridge called Girton College. A visit to this now famous seat of learning has been arranged for May by David Howlett our Programme Secretary. However what members may not know is that Mary Ann Kingsland who won a scholarship to the College in 1871 was the Great Aunt of John Turner, former Assistant Programme Secretary of our society. She together with another student were the first women to take the Natural Science Tripos and she gained a second class honours in 1873. John who lives on Brampton Park Road has Kingsland as one of his four names.

A well-researched book “Pioneering Women The Origins of Girton College in Hitchin” has been written by Val Campion, a former member of our society and one time committee member.

The Programme for 2019 - David Howlett

The Society Programme for 2019 is on page 4 of this Newsletter. This year sees a particular focus on the 150th anniversary of the foundation, in Hitchin, of Girton College, Cambridge – a visit to the College in May, its featuring in the Scilla Douglas Lecture in July (details later) and a Benslow walk in September.

In April two visits need special mention. The trip to Two Temple Place in London was prompted by a member suggestion and a John Ruskin exhibition: the famous annulment of Ruskin’s marriage had an odd Hitchin connection. The visit to the de Havilland Museum follows on Alistair Hodgson’s very popular talk in February 2018. Otherwise, we have again attempted to arrange a mix of meetings and visits which will appeal to a range of member interests – we hope!

Discovering More about Hitchin – Triumph! Mike Clarke (Publications Officer)

Having reported on the progress in the last newsletter, with the finishing post in sight, we did complete the job... well apart from underestimating the demand! The editors slaved away to top and tail all of the chapters, the designer picked out a front of cover photo, the printers were lined up and it was all ready by October 20th. Phew!! There were a few hitches, but the late design of a study version of the maps added a welcome finishing touch.

The launch at the large classroom of the British Schools Museum went well. Sam Mason and Yvonne Limbrick ensured that the museum was ready, HHS volunteers did all the necessary with sales and food and drink. Terry Knight and Bob Williams provided greetings and thanks to the assembled crowd (200 attended). Pauline Humphries gave an excellent account of Scilla's work and their editing of the book's predecessor from 1995 – "Discovering Hitchin".

We sold about 150 books by the end of that first day, and sales continued. Merryfields of Sun Street were very helpful in offering help with that and the Initiative office in Churchyard sold many books. Waterstones did eventually stock it and we hope they will continue to have it on their shelves. David's Bookshop in Letchworth have also had healthy sales and we are very grateful for their support. The problem has been, of course, that we sold too many! After a little bit of dithering, it did become obvious that we should print some more. 500 sold quickly and the feedback has been very positive – interesting content and beautiful illustrations and a good price. The reprint of 300 was too late for Christmas but we expect that it will continue selling through the coming years.

We felt Scilla's words in our ears as we put it together – she had many firm views on how things should be done! We hope that she would have been pleased with the result and do feel that it is a fitting memorial for all that she contributed to the Historical Society and its many publications.

Intrepid eight seek historical enlightenment - Pauline Humphries

It was that time of year again (November) when a band of Society members traditionally brave the open road and follow the trail to the Hertfordshire Association for Local History's Annual Symposium. To the un-initiated, this event is the highlight of the local history calendar. Local Societies from all over the county attend to listen to themed talks and to run stalls selling their publications and promoting their new research. It is also a marvelous opportunity to "see and be seen", to gather ideas, and to catch-up with old friends. This year we were heading for Lemsford, a village not far from St Albans, to listen to talks relating to "Hertfordshire's Development – from Roman City to New Towns". One of our party, HHS author Audrey Stewart, was contributing an item on "Hitchin in the 19th century", and we were also running a stall selling our publications, including our new book, hot off the press.

Once there and fortified by coffee, we joined a packed hall for a wide range of talks, beginning in Verulamium and progressing through the centuries by way of medieval market towns, and the Chartist Land Colony, to Hertford, St Albans, Hitchin and Lemsford itself. The latter was useful, as it detailed the location and characteristics of local historic hostelrys to which the audience could repair for lunchtime food and drink! The break also gave opportunities to browse stalls and discover what others were researching. Our smart new display material commanded attention! The afternoon session introduced us to writers and thinkers of the Garden City Movement, followed by an Industrial history of Letchworth Garden City, and to end, a visit to the first post-war New Town of Stevenage. All in all, a fascinating journey through time, with some excellent speakers and new insights.

If anybody fancies a day of interesting talks and an opportunity to explore what other Societies are "up to", a trip to the Symposium is well worth considering. Next year's venue is close to home (at Woolmer Green), on Saturday 9th November. Details and theme nearer the time.
